

Best Food Trucks In Los Angeles

December 13, 2016 5:00 AM

(Credit: ROBYN BECK/AFP/Getty Images)

What started out as a simple dining convenience at job sites, food truck cuisine has morphed into an urban culture. You can get pretty much anything for breakfast, lunch and dinner parked on the side of the road. While these restaurants-on-the-go are a common site here in Los Angeles, not all food trucks are created equal. The meals and menus cover a broad spectrum of quality with most of them landing in the pretty decent range. An experienced food truck connoisseur knows which ones to go to and which ones to avoid. If you're new to the scene, you can save yourself a potential stomachache and check out these top five food trucks in Los Angeles.

Kogi Truck
All Over The City

It would be impossible to have a best food trucks list without Kogi being on it. Although Kogi has been around for a while, it remains one of the best that's out there. Serving up delicious Korean BBQ eats on the streets of LA, it has become a symbol of the food truck revolution that hit LA a few years back. While you can taste their full menu by visiting the Alibi Room in Culver City, there is something different and fun about finding out where the truck is going to be. The truck runs on a weekly schedule and essentially has 4 trucks, Roja, Verde, Naranja and Rosita. Each one comes with its own schedule of where it's going to be that day. For a full schedule, visit Kogi BBQ Schedule. Don't know what to get? You really can't go wrong with anything on the menu but the favorites include the short rib tacos, Kogi sliders, Kogi Kimchi Quesadilla, the Blackjack Quesadilla, and the Spicy Pork Tacos.

(credit: Eric Shin)

Peaches' Food Truck

www.peachestruck.com

In the mood for some good old Southern cooking? Peaches' Smokehouse and Southern Kitchen is L.A.'s best truck to indulge in slow-smoked BBQ and classic comfort food from the south. Made from scratch with great ingredients, sample menu items include a pulled pork sandwich with fresh coleslaw, a country-fried steak sandwich, a smoked chicken sandwich with Alabama white sauce and house pickles, waffle fries, a grilled cheese sandwich, BBQ fries, and much more. Find them here.

(credit: Diana L./yelp)